RE: Freedom of Information Act 2000 Request

I write in response to your Freedom of Information Act 2000 (or 'FoIA 2000') request dated 3 September 2021 for information on PNC NCALT training that references MetSearch.

When a request for information is made under FoIA 2000, a public authority has a general duty under section 1(1) of the Act to inform an applicant whether the requested information is held. There is then a general obligation to communicate that information to the applicant. If a public authority decides that the information should not be disclosed because an exemption applies, it must, under section 17(1) cite the appropriate section or exemption of the Act and provide an explanation for relying upon it.

It is important to note that a freedom of information request is not a private transaction. Both the request itself and any information disclosed are considered suitable for open publication, that is, once access to information is granted to one person under the legislation, it is then considered public information and must be communicated to any individual should a request be received. In light of this, our responses and disclosures are published on our external website at a later date.

Decision

After conducting careful searches for information relating to your request, I can confirm there is no information held. While we do hold information that could be considered NCALT PNC training, this does not contain any references to, or information on, MetSearch and therefore falls outside the scope of your request.

NCALT (now College Learn) is a system owned by the College, however the PNC system itself is owned by the Home Office. As regards the learning, it may be that the Metropolitan Police have produced their own training package on the PNC and MetSearch however this is not a package we hold any information on. I would advise you to contact the Metropolitan Police again, advising them that we have undertaken comprehensive searches and we do not hold the information requested. If they wish to contact us directly about any subsequent request you submit to them for this information they can do so at the email address below.

Please accept my apologies that we have not been able to assist further on this occasion.

I trust this letter answers your questions. Your rights are provided in Appendix A.
