RE: Your Freedom of Information Act 2000 (FOIA 2000) request

I write in response to your email dated 25 May 2022 in which you made a freedom of information request for the following information:

1. How many of your staff have been accused of a) sexual misconduct, or b) other professional misconduct in the workplace since 1st January 2021?
2. How many of your staff have been disciplined for a) sexual misconduct, or b) other professional misconduct in the workplace since 1st January 2021?

Decision

When a request for information is made under FoIA 2000, a public authority has a general duty under section 1(1) of the Act to inform an applicant whether the requested information is held. There is then a general obligation to communicate that information to the applicant. If a public authority decides that the information should not be disclosed because an exemption applies, it must, under section 17(1) cite the appropriate section or exemption of the Act and provide an explanation for relying upon it.

Having considered your request and conducted reasonable searches for information, I am now issuing my decision to you. In line with section 1(1) of FOIA 2000 I can confirm that no information is held.

I trust this letter answers your request. Your rights are detailed at the end of this letter.

Yours sincerely,
