RE: Your request for information under the Freedom of Information Act 2000

I write in response to your Freedom of Information Act 2000 ('FoIA 2000') request dated 15/02/2021, in which you requested:

"Please could you provide information in relation to the Initial Police Learning Development Programme (IPLDP), commencing September 2015.

1. Numbers of applicants in September 2015;
2. Data surrounding successful completion of candidates of training and
3. The positions that the applicants were offered at the time of completion."

Decision

When a request for information is made under the FoIA 2000, a public authority has a general duty under section 1(1) of the Act to inform an applicant whether the requested information is held. There is then a general obligation to communicate that information to the applicant.

In line with section 1(1) of the FoIA 2000, I can confirm the College does not hold any information relevant to your request. We recommend you make your request to individual police forces.

Your rights are provided at the bottom of this letter.

Yours sincerely,

Kate Kaufman | Legal Researcher
Information Management and Legal Team
College of Policing

Your right of review

Under the Freedom of Information Act 2000 you have a right to request an internal review if you are dissatisfied with our handling of your request. Review requests should be made in writing (by email or post) within 40 working days from the date of our original response. We will aim to respond to your review request within 20 working days.

The Information Commissioner's Office (ICO)

If, after lodging a review request you are still dissatisfied, you may raise the matter with the ICO.
